Call for Applicants

M.A. student or research assistant is needed for a research project at the University of Haifa on the topic “Pollution, Taboo and Norm Formation in Ancient Israel.” The project and related thesis will be carried out under the direction of Dr. Yitzhaq Feder of the Department of Bible. The selected applicant will receive a substantial living stipend or work salary for a two-year period (2018–2020 academic years).

The work will involve research on the terminology and behavioral codes pertaining to taboo in ancient Near Eastern cultures. Preference will be given to applicants with prior background in one of the relevant languages, including Sumerian, Akkadian, Hittite and Ugaritic.

For further details and applications, please contact: Dr. Yitzhaq Feder, yfeder1@gmail.com.
