We are pleased to announce that the fourth annual Undergraduate Judaic Studies Conference will take place at Yale University on Sunday, February 17th (Presidents' Day Weekend), 2019.

The conference will bring together qualified undergraduate students to present and discuss papers on topics in Judaic Studies. The conference aims to foster intercollegiate conversations among undergraduates pursuing research in Judaic Studies, as well as to provide accomplished undergraduates with the opportunity to present their research and receive feedback from peers.

We invite you to submit your work for review. Read more about the conference at undergradjudaicsconference.com and email papers to undergraduatejudaicstudies@gmail.com. The deadline for submissions is Wednesday, December 19, 2018. Papers will be evaluated by graduate students experienced in the appropriate fields. If selected, you will be invited to present your research at the conference. Students whose papers are selected will receive travel subsidies as well as free meals and housing.

We look forward to receiving your papers and to seeing you at the conference, either as a presenter or as a participant. We hope you will join us in this effort to foster a meaningful conversation about Jewish experience that spans many fields of study as well as many campuses.
