

University of Toronto's Symposia: The Journal of Religion is issuing an open call for papers for the special 10th anniversary edition of the journal. Articles from all disciplines addressing religion and religious studies are welcome. We also invite book reviews and op-eds related topics in religious studies. All submissions are subject to a double-blind peer review process and this edition of the journal is set to be published in autumn of 2018.

Please contact us with any questions regarding the journal or your submission, and consult our website for submission details and formatting requirements:

<http://symposia.library.utoronto.ca/index.php/symposia/about>

Sincerely,

The Editorial Team

Symposia: The Journal of Religion

Symposia: The Journal of Religion is an interdisciplinary, peer-reviewed journal for scholars in the humanities and social sciences who identify religion as an important consideration in their research. Based out of University of Toronto's Department for the Study of Religion, the journal was revived by graduate students in 2008 to foster the publication of graduate student and early career scholar articles in the field of religion.