

Lecturer in Hebrew Language at Fordham University

The Department of Modern Languages and Literatures at Fordham University announces a lecturer position in Hebrew. Candidates who have experience teaching modern and biblical Hebrew are particularly encouraged to apply. The candidate will direct and develop a new Hebrew program following the same sequence as the other language courses taught in the department. He or she will also teach content courses in the Jewish Studies Program and Modern Language and Literatures. Other responsibilities will include among others: language placement, advising, assessment, tutoring, and event planning. Initial 1-year with the potential for renewal. Rose Hill Campus.

Please send a cover letter, CV, and three letters of recommendation to Professors Andrew Clark and Magda Teter by January 15, 2017. At <https://apply.interfolio.com/39565>

For more information please email: jewishstudies@fordham.edu

Fordham is an independent, Catholic University in the Jesuit tradition that welcomes applications from all backgrounds. Fordham is an equal opportunity employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff.