

Talmud and Halakha

Open call to candidates for a tenure-track position in the Department of Talmud and Halakha at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem (open rank).

Job requirements:

Candidates are sought for a tenure-track position in the field of classical Talmudic literature (Tannaitic and Amoraic), with preference for Tannaitic Literature.

The position is open to individuals who hold a doctorate degree by September 26 2016.

The position is open to qualified researchers in the various areas of classical Talmudic literature: Mishnah and Tosefta, Halakhic Midrash, Talmud (Bavli and/or Yerushalmi), Aggadic Midrash, History of Early Halakha and Rabbinic Thought. Preference will be given to applicants whose main field of research is in Tannaitic Literature.

All applicants should have full mastery of the original sources and demonstrate excellent research and teaching abilities. We also expect applicants to be thoroughly familiar with the languages required for their research, as well as with the surrounding non-rabbinic cultures and post-rabbinic literature, and to integrate this knowledge in their research and instruction. Teaching and supervising duties in the department are not confined to the specific field of research of each of the faculty members; it is necessary, therefore, that all applicants be able to teach and to supervise advanced students in both Tannaitic Literature and Babylonian Talmud.

Successful candidates are expected to demonstrate academic leadership, to compete for Israeli and international research grants, and have the ability to cooperate with colleagues within the Faculty of Humanities and beyond.

Qualified candidates will be invited for a job talk and interview.

More on our department at <http://talmud.huji.ac.il/>.

For more information, please contact Prof. Shlomo Naeh, Head of the Department of Talmud and Halakha, at: naeh@mail.huji.ac.il.