

Lecturer/Senior lecturer in Egyptology (permanent full time position)
Department of Classics, Ancient History and Archaeology
University of Birmingham

Placed on: 3rd December 2018
Closing date: 6th February 2019

Salary: Full time starting salary: £40,792 - £75,744 (Lecturer salary from £40,792 - £48,677 a year with potential progression to £54,765 a year; Senior Lecturer/Reader salary from £50,132 - £58,089 a year with potential progression to £75,744 a year)

Location: Edgbaston, Birmingham, B15 2TT, UK (EU)

The Department of Classics, Ancient History and Archaeology seeks to appoint a Lecturer or Senior Lecturer (depending on the experience of the successful candidate), in Egyptology, with particular expertise in the archaeology, material culture, or visual culture/art history of Egypt. The successful candidate will be expected to provide or contribute to modules covering Egyptian material culture from prehistory to the first millennium BC, and to have a proven ability to teach Middle Egyptian language. An interest in the connections between Egypt and the cultures of the Eastern Mediterranean or Mesopotamia would be desirable.

An internationally outstanding research record (as defined by REF), appropriate to their career stage, is essential for the successful candidate.

The Department of Classics, Ancient History and Archaeology was ranked fifth overall by the REF2014 national research audit.

The successful candidate will also be asked to contribute to modules for Masters level students and will be expected to recruit research students in due course. The successful candidate will also be asked to undertake administrative duties within the Department, School or College.

For informal enquiries, please contact Dr Elena Theodorakopoulos (Email: e.m.theodorakopoulos@bham.ac.uk) or Professor Sabine Lee (s.lee.hst@bham.ac.uk).

To download the full details of this position and submit an electronic application online please go to <https://www.jobs.ac.uk/job/BOM496/lecturer-senior-lecturer-in-egyptology> or Lecturer/Senior Lecturer in Egyptology - 31509, see also <http://www.download.bham.ac.uk/vacancies/jd/31509.pdf>