

The Experimental College invites professionals and graduate students to apply as Visiting Lecturers for the Fall 2018 semester.

Applicants will:

- Design an undergraduate elective course
- Explore interdisciplinary subjects
- Examine contemporary issues and ideas
- Use innovative teaching methods

ExCollege courses seek to complement – rather than duplicate – classes being offered in the traditional departments. Up to fifteen courses will be selected from a very competitive pool. Classes meet for 2.5 hours in the evening, once a week, over thirteen weeks, at the Tufts Medford/Somerville campus. Enrollment is usually kept to less than twenty students.

In the past, each Experimental College course has carried an honorarium of $4,500.00 per course, whether individually or team-taught. The Fall 2018 semester begins September 4, 2018 and classes end on December 10, 2018.

Read the complete job posting and apply via Interfolio at: apply.interfolio.com/46757.

Applications must be uploaded through Interfolio with these four documents: a biographical statement, course description, syllabus, and resume/CV.

The deadline to apply is: Monday, January 8, 2018.

For more information, and examples of courses offered, go to www.excollege.tufts.edu, or call 617-627-3384, or email us at excollege@tufts.edu.

Cordially yours,

Howard

Howard S. Woolf
Director, The Experimental College
Associate Dean, Undergraduate Education