

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY
Department of Hebrew and Judaic Studies
Language Lecturer in Modern Hebrew Language
Arts and Science

The Skirball Department of Hebrew and Judaic Studies at New York University invites applications for the position of language lecturer in Modern Hebrew. The appointment will begin September 1, 2019, subject to budgetary and administrative approval. The initial appointment will be for three years, with a possibility for renewal. The ideal candidate will have a proven record of excellence in language teaching including expertise in the use of technology in language instruction, superb academic credentials, native or near-native fluency, and a minimum of an M.A in an appropriate area. Ability to relate to other aspects of a comprehensive program in Hebrew and Jewish Studies is essential. Opportunities exist for collaboration with the Taub Center for Israel Studies and NYU's study away site in Tel Aviv. The teaching load is three courses per semester at elementary, intermediate, and advanced levels. Salary commensurate with qualifications.

Applications are due on November 15, 2018. To apply, submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three letters of reference, and student evaluations (if available) at <https://apply.interfolio.com/55915>. Within your cover letter, please discuss how your teaching can engage a diverse student population like that of NYU. More information about the department can be found at <http://hebrewjudaic.as.nyu.edu>.

The Faculty of Arts and Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber, who embody the diversity of the United States as well as the global society in which we live. We strongly encourage applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach.
