

College of Charleston -- Charleston, SC (Hebrew Instructor)
Program of Jewish Studies

The Program of Jewish Studies invites applications for an Instructor in modern Hebrew, starting August 16, 2018. This is a renewable position, and during the sixth year the instructor undergoes review for promotion to the rank of Senior Instructor. We seek an enthusiastic teacher dedicated to working with undergraduate students in a robust Jewish Studies Program. The College of Charleston has a two-year language requirement for all students, which can be satisfied by Hebrew coursework. Hebrew is also a core of both the major and minor in Jewish Studies. The position is benefits-eligible, the salary is competitive and commensurate with experience and qualifications.

Minimum requirement is a Masters. Candidates must have native or near-native command of Hebrew and strong command of English. At least two years of teaching experience is preferred. The teaching load is twelve credit hours per semester (three four-credit courses at present). Additional duties may include, but are not restricted to, participating in Program and College functions; advising students and clubs; and service to the Program and College.

Apply online at JOBS.COFC.EDU [<http://jobs.cofc.edu/postings/6663>]. Submit online: letter of application detailing preparation/experience; curriculum vitae, unofficial graduate transcripts (official transcripts will be required for hiring); sample teaching materials; and contact information for three references. The reference providers will only be notified once your application is complete. Review of applications will begin on December 8, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. Questions regarding the position can be directed to Dr. Martin Perlmutter, Search Committee Chair, at Perlmutterm@cofc.edu. Representatives of the search committee plan to conduct preliminary on-line interviews and/or interviews at the AJS conference in Washington D.C.
